OLYMPIC GAMES.

The Olympic games of 1904, held in the stadium of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition, at St. Louis, were without question the greatest athletic games ever held in the world. This was the third Olympic gathering under the auspices of the International Olympic Committee, of which Baron Pierre DeCoubertin of Paris is the President. To Baron DeCoubertin is entirely due the idea of the revival of the Olympic games' as well as the organization of the International Olympic Committee. The first Olympic games approved by the International Committee were held at Athens in 1896, the second at Paris in 1900, and it was decided by the International Committee to hold the third Olympic meeting in the city of Chicago during 1904. When it became apparent that the World's Fair was to have a well established Department of Physical Culture, with athletic games of all descriptions, it suggested itself to those interested that it would not do to have in America during the year 1904 two large athletic gatherings, as one must necessarily suffer. Chicago had organized an association for the conduct of this meeting and had also appointed committees, and it looked at one time as though there was a possibility of a conflict. This, however, was averted mainly through the instrumentality of Mr. A. G. Spalding and Mr. Frederick J. V. Skiff, both Chicago men, Mr. Skiff being the Director of Exhibits at the World's Fair. The result was that Chicago gave way and recommended to the International Committee the giving of the games to St. Louis, which was agreed to. There is no necessity here of dwelling at any great length upon the Olympic games contests or upon the success of future Olympic games. It is fair to say, however, that to America must be given the absolute credit of carrying to a success the Olympic games, the like of which will never again be equaled until the Olympic games are brought back to America, as America has set a standard that certainly will be hard for other countries to follow.

Early in the season the Department of Physical Culture was notified that it was the desire of the International Committee that all sports that were to be given under the auspices of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition must bear the name "Olympic," and as a result Olympic championships in different sports were announced.

The different governing bodies of America appreciated thoroughly the great good that the Olympic games would do to all organized amateur sport in America and co-operated cheerfully with the Department of Physical Culture toward making the year's sports a gigantic success.

Owing to the conditions in America, particularly the athletic conditions, and the advanced stage we are now in, the Olympic games were held for many classes. The sports in the stadium commenced early in May with an interschoastic meeting, open to schoolboys of the State of Missouri. An open handicap meeting followed, for residents of Missouri, and intercollegiate meetings for the colleges of the Western territory. Interscholastic championships were also held, as were sectional college championships and National college championships, the idea being to select the particular Olympic champions in each class, because it would be manifestly unfair to ask an elementary schoolboy to compete with the preparatory schoolboy and the scholastic champion to compete with the college champion, for changes and conditions make it impossible for all to compete in one class with any degree of success.

BARON PIERRE DE COUBERTIN,
President of Olympic Committee.

We have had in St. Louis under the Olympic banner, handicap athletic meets, interscholastic meets, Turners' mass exercises, base ball, international gymnastic championship competitions, championships for public schoolboys, lacrosse championships, swimming championships, basket ball championships, one of the best rowing regattas ever contested, bicycle championships, rouge tournaments, fencing tournament, a special week for the Olympic Young Men's Christian Association championships, tennis tournament, golf tournament; archery tournament, wrestling, boxing and gymnastic, championships tournaments, as well as the Olympic games, that decided the world's championships at track and field sports.

The Department received over 4,000 entries for the games decided in the Olympic series and when we include the team competitions and mass exercises the number of athletes that participated in the stadium during the year will come close to 9,000. This is certainly a showing from a numerical standpoint of which those who have been connected with this year's work can justly feel proud.

After the Louisiana Purchase Exposition Company secured the right to hold the Olympic games under the auspices of the Department of Physical Culture, the programme for this meeting was given a great deal of consideration. The Department had been created, the Chief had been appointed, and the International Committee, through its President., Baron Pierre DeCoubertin, delegated its powers to arrange the programme to the special committee of the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States. This committee met and as far as it could consistently arranged the athletic programme in conjunction with the Department. The powers of the American members of the International Olympic Committee, who are Caspar Whitney, of New York, editor of "Outing"; Prof. Wm. Sloane and James H. Hyde, were sought by the Department, and Mr. Whitney gladly at all times co-operated toward making the meeting a success; in fact, he aided materially in the organization of the Physical Culture Department of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition.

DAVID R. FRANCIS,
President Louisiana Purchase Exposition, St. Louis, 1904.

After the preliminary work with the Amateur Athletic Union's committee, it was necessary for the Department to enlist the sympathies of the other governing bodies throughout America, for it was felt imperative that in order to make the Olympic games of 1904 a pronounced success the official endorsement and cooperation of all American governing bodies was essential, and as a result the National Lawn Tennis Association, the National Golf Association, the National Roque Association, National Archery Association, National Association of Amateur Oarsmen, and the American Amateur Fencers' League, gladly co-operated with the Department, took unto themselves the active management of the different Olympic championships for their associations and made the same a pronounced success.

The Amateur Athletic Union of the United States, under whose rules the athletic features were held, deserves the highest kind of praise for the co-operation it gave to the Department, and so do the individual active associations that make up that body, together with all its allied members.

After the preliminary arrangements were perfected and programmes of the games published and distributed, the question of the Presidency of the Olympic games received the attention of the Department. The result was that through the efforts of Mr. Caspar Whitney, the Hon. Theodore Roosevelt, President of the United States, accepted the Honorary Presidency of the Olympic games for 1904 and David R. Francis accepted the Presidency of the Olympic games of 1904.

The acceptance of the Honorary Presidency of the Olympic games by President Roosevelt was a tribute to all concerned in the creation of the Olympic games for 1904. His acceptance proved conclusively that he approved of the organization, had given the subject a great deal of thought and believed that the successful carrying out of the programme meant much to the future success of this country as an athletic nation. He can certainly feel proud, as Honorary President, of the way the Louisiana Purchase Exposition conducted the games. There was not the slightest hitch; everything was carried on in a high class manner, and purely in an amateur way, and more has been accomplished for the future of athletics in this country than could ever be accomplished by any other method.

The Olympic games, held from August 29 to September 3, brought together in the stadium the greatest athletes of the world. Never before in America or any other country were such contests witnessed. World's records were made, Olympic records were equaled and surpassed and the competitions were keen and interesting. When one looks over the list of Olympic winners and then over the list of eligible men in the world, there are perhaps two men living to-day who were not in the stadium who could have won Olympic honors.

These particular games were made more interesting from the fact Lifting bar bell-Corwin H. Spencer.

THE ENTRY LIST.

The entry that was received for the Olympic games shows conclusively what interest was taken in the different athletic fixtures, -and it is confidently stated by those who ought to know, that this is the largest entry that has ever been received by any one organization or corporation that ever held an athletic meeting or a series of athletic meetings. The following is a complete list of entries received, making a grand total of

To President D. R. Francis, Director F. J. V. Skiff and the directors of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition, the American athletes and the American governing bodies owe a great deal. The object of the Department of Physical Culture was not to make money. It was believed that the subject of physical training and athletics had advanced to such a stage that a department could be created that would, in the broadest educational way, show to what an advanced state of affairs athletics had reached. A large sum of money was voted to give games, to encourage amateur sport, and to show in an educational way what steps forward had been made. And it is fair to state that the officials of the Exposition, from the very first meeting, knew that the whole work of the department would have to be classified as educational.

The final results of the Olympic games proves conclusively what has often been claimed, that the colleges of America will furnish the champion athletes of the future.

During the Olympic games, which extended from May to November, the prominent colleges of America (with the exception of a few of

The final results of the Olympic games show that out of the 24 individual events (the tug-of-war and team race excluded), 15 were won by college men, and out of the 94 men placed, 50 were college men and 44 never had college training.

OLYMPIC LECTURE COURSE.

The scientific aspects of physical training and athletics were given prominence equal to that of the athletic competitions themselves by the presentation of courses of lectures by many of the world's authorities on the various subjects. These lectures embraced in most instances the results of original work not heretofore available to the public. The whole body of lectures, which are being published by the Exposition, constitute by far the most extended exposition of the science of physical training that has ever been made. The most cursory survey of the titles to these lectures will indicate the vast range of topics discussed. The plane upon which the work was carried out is indicated by persons who delivered these lectures, as well as by the distinguished positions they hold in the physical training, educational and medical world.

The number of lectures given by each person varied from one to ten. The names of the lecturers and their subjects are as follows:

E. H. Arnold, M.D., New Haven Normal School of Gymnastics, New Haven, Conn.-"The Organization and Conduct of School Games."

C. Ward Crampton, M.D., High School of Commerce, New York City-"The Correlation of Hygiene and Physical Training"; "Some Recent Advances in the Science of Physical Training."

George T. Hepbron, New York City-"The Equipment and Construction of Gymnasium and Athletic Fields."

H. S. Curtis, Ph.D., DeWitt Clinton High School, New York City-"The Playground Movement."

Cassius H. Watson, B.S.; Pratt Institute, Brooklyn, N. Y.-"Muscular Movement and Human Evolution."

C. Stanley Hall, Ph.D., LL.D., President Clark University, Worcester, Mass.-"Health as Related to Civilization."

Paul C. Phillips, M.D., Amherst College, Amherst, Mass.-"Anthropometric Methods."

ARCHIE HAHN,

Aside from that, the Department had a fully equipped gymnasium with hundreds of exhibits from schools, colleges, and athletic clubs, showing the advancement made in athletics and physical training in this and other countries.

PREVIOUS OLYMPIC GAMES.

For the purpose of comparison we here with publish the winners and performances at the Olympic games at Athens in 1896 and at Paris in 1900, and on the following pages will be found a summary of the events at St. Louis. In nearly all the St. Louis events new Olympic records were made, equaled or surpassed, and in many worlds records were established.

ATHENS, 1896.

100 metres-12s., T. E. Burke, Boston A.A.

400 metres-54 1-5s., T. E. Burke, Boston A.A.

800 metres-2m. 11s., E. H. Flack, London A.C.

1,500 metres-4m. 33 1-5s., E. H. Flack, London A.C.

110 metres hurdle race-17 3-5s., T. P. Curtis, Boston A.A.

HARRY HILLMAN.
New York A. C.
Winner of Three Events, Olympic Championships.

- High jump-5ft. 11 1-4in., E. H. Clark, Boston A.A.
 Long jump-20ft. 9 3-4in., E. H. Clark, Boston A.A.
 Running triple jump-45ft., J. Connolly, Suffolk A. C. The winner took two hops and a jump, there being no restrictions as to style.
 Pole jump-10ft. 9 3-4in., W. W. Hoyt, Boston A.A.
 Putting 16-lb. weight (from 6ft. 3 3-4in. square without follow)-36ft. 2in., R. Garrett, Jr., Princeton U.A.A.
 Throwing the discus-95ft. 7 1-2 in., R. Garrett, Jr., Princeton U.A.A.
 The discus was lens shaped, of hard wood, surrounded by iron, with brass centre, and weighed 2 kilos. (4 1-2 pounds). It was thrown from an 8ft. 4 1-2in. square.
 Weight lifting (two hands)-245 pounds 12 ounces, V. Jenson, Copenhagen. A.C.
 Weight lifting (one hand)-156 pounds, 8 ounces, L. Elliott, London A.W.L.C. The contestants are required to lift a bar-bell (two hands) and a dumbbell (one hand), repeating to the shoulder, and thence vertically above the head.
 Marathon race (24 miles 1,500 yards)-2h. 55m. 20s., S. Loues, Greece. Greece.

PARIS, 1900,

- 60 metre run (65.62 yards)-7s A. C. Kraenzlein.

TESTIMONIAL TO DIRECTOR F. J. V. SKIFF.

After the Department of Physical Culture became thoroughly established and it was readily seen what good benefits were resulting therefrom, many gentlemen interested in the advancement of athletics in the United States decided that it would be only proper to recognize the man that created the Department, and at a dinner given within the exposition grounds early in June the following testimonial was presented to Director Skiff, the presentation speech being made by the Hon. Joseph B. Maccabe, the present President of the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States.

TESTIMONIAL.

Presented to Mr. Frederick J. V. Skiff, Director of Exhibits, Louisiana Purchase Exposition, St. Louis, 1904.

MR. FREDERICK J.V. SKIFF.

Dear Sir : 'The undersigned, believing that a sound mind in a healthy body is conducive to good citizenship, and that the systematic training of the young in athletic exercises tends to promote all the manly virtues and to, better our race in all the relations of life, desire to express our hearty appreciation of your broad-minded, far-sighted and patriotic action in establishing, for the first time in the history of international expositions, a conspicuous, thoroughly equipped department, devoted wholly to physical culture, in connection with the universal exposition at St. Louis.

The far-reaching, beneficial results of this new department are already recognized by our foremost statesmen, notably by the acceptance of the honorary presidency of the Olympic games by the President of the United States. We do not hesitate to predict that, whatever other benefits may accrue from this great exposition, those resulting from the Department of Physical Culture will be most widespread, most beneficial, and, permanent in real value to our people.

Baron Pierre DeCoubertin, President of the International Olympic
C o m m i t t e e :

COMITE INTERNATIONAL OLYMPIQUE.

PARIS, Oct. 19, 1904.

Dear Mr. Sullivan :

On behalf of the International Olympic Committee, I beg to send you our warmest congratulations and thanks for the wonderful work you have succeeded in carrying out the organization of the third Olympiad.

As a token of our gratitude, I have the pleasure to state that the medal commemorating the revival of the Olympic games will be awarded to you on the occasion of the International Congress to be held in Brussels in June, 1905, under the presidency of his Majesty the King of the Belgians.

The value of the souvenir comes from the fact that only a very few copies have been given away since ten years, their Majesties the Emperor of Germany and the King of Spain and their Royal Highnesses the Crown Prince of Greece, the Crown Prince of Sweden and Norway and the Prince of Wales being among those who said were glad to receive it. President McKinley also received it after the vote making the third Olympiad an American one:

We expect you to present a short but substantial report on the St. Louis games to the Brussels Congress.

Thanking you for the numerous documents and the medals you sent us and congratulating you once more,

I am, dear Mr. Sullivan,

Very truly yours,

BARON PIERRE DECOUBERTIN,
President of the International Olympic Committee.

OLYMPIC COLLEGE FOOT BALL.

The Department knew perfectly well that it would be unable to have an Olympic Foot Ball Championship, though it felt incumbent to advertise it. Owing to the conditions in American colleges it would be utterly impossible to have an Olympic foot ball championship decided. The only college that seemed absolutely willing to give up its financial interests to play for the World's Fair Championship was the St. Louis University and there is more apparently in this honor than appears in this report. There were many exhibition contests held in the Stadium under the auspices of the Department wherein teams from the St. Louis University and Washington University took part and competed against other teams from universities east and west of the Mississippi River. The Missouri-Purdue game was played in the Stadium on October 28, as was the Carlisle-Haskell game on November 26, when the men from the Government Indian Schools competed against each other for the first time.

The Olympic College Foot Ball Championship was won by St. Louis University, St. Louis, Mo., by default.

The following is the schedule of the foot ball games played in the Stadium:

Sept. 28—Washington, 10; Shurtleff, 0. Oct. 5—Washington, 16; Rose Polytechnic, 5. Oct. 8—Washington, 0; University of Illinois, 31. Oct. 15—Washington, 0; Sewanee, 17. Oct. 19—Washington, 36; Drury, 0. Oct. 22—Washington, 6; University of Indiana, 21. Oct. 29—Washington, 0; University of Texas, 23. Nov. 5—Washington, 11; University of Missouri, 0. Nov. 12—Washington, 0; University of Kansas, 12. Nov. 19—Washington, 5; University of West Virginia, 6. Nov. 24—Washington, 0; Haskell Indians, 47. Nov. 26—Carlisle Indians, 38; Haskell Indians, 4.

ANTHROPOLOGY DAYS AT THE STADIUM.

Held August 12-13, 1904.

In the early months of the Exposition the Chief of the Department of Physical Culture had several conferences with Dr. WJ McGee, Chief of the Department of Anthropology, in relation to the athletic ability of the several savage tribes, and owing to the startling rumors and statements that were made in relation to the speed, stamina and strength of each and every particular tribe that was represented at St. Louis, it was decided to inaugurate a two-days athletic meet for them, to be known as "Anthropology Days," the days being named after the Department of Anthropology, in honor of Dr. McGee, who used his influence toward making the days the brilliant success, which they terminated in.

It would be unfair, however, to proceed with the narrative of the Anthropology Days without giving a great deal of credit to Dr. Simms, of the Field Museum, Chicago, for the part he took in arranging the details and successfully carrying them out, and to Dr. Luther Halsey Gulick, who did much preliminary work and acted as referee. The first day the various tribes competed amongst themselves in the different athletic events selected, and on the second day occurred the final contests between those finishing first and second in each one of the tribal events on the opening day.

The Department very wisely held this meeting during the month of August, so that the many physical directors and gentlemen interested in scientific work could be present and benefit by the demonstrations. That the ones interested were deeply disappointed in what this meeting demonstrated is well known. We have for years been led to believe from statements made by those who should know and from newspaper articles and books, that the average savage was fleet of foot, strong of limb, accurate with the bow and arrow and expert in throwing the stone, and that some, particularly the Patagonians, were noted for their great size and strength, and owing to the peculiar life that many have been called upon to lead they have been termed natural athletes. Of course none expected that the Patagonians would be John Flanagans or the Indians Arthur Duffeys or Alexander Grants, but they certainly expected a great deal more from the savages who competed in the Anthropology Days than events proved.

We have heard of the marvelous qualities of the Indian as a runner; of the stamina of the Kaffir, and the natural all around ability of the savage in athletic feats, but the events at St. Louis disprove these tales. The records that are published herewith will prove most interesting, as they are the results of the first athletic meeting held anywhere, in which savages were exclusive participants.

On the first day of the Anthropology sports the one hundred yards run was decided in heats, subdivided as follows : Six heats, one for each of the following classes, Africans, Moros (Philippines), Patagonians, and the Ainu (Japanese), Cocopa (Mexican), and Sioux Indian tribes. The fastest time was made by George Mentz, of the Sioux tribe, an Americanized Indian. His time was 11 4-5s., time that almost any winner of a schoolboy event would eclipse at will. Lamba, an African Pigmy, ran one hundred yards in 14 3-5s. Now the African Pigmy leads an outdoor life, hunts, runs, swims, jumps and uses the bow and arrow and spear, and if anything, his life might be termed a natural athletic one, but, nevertheless, we find that it takes him 14 3-5s. to run one hundred yards. Arthur Duffy, or any of our American champion sprinters could easily, in this particular race, have given the African Pigmy forty yards and a beating.

No particular speed, of course, was expected from the Patagonians, The winner's time, 13 3-5s., might be considered very poor running for even an ordinary man in a healthy condition. A Cocopa Indian ran the one hundred yards in 13s.

The shot putting contest had a great many entries, each tribe competing among themselves. The tribes entered consisted of the Patagonians, the Cocopas, the Indian tribe, the Ainu (Japanese), the Turks and the Africans. It was in this particular competition that every one naturally supposed the Patagonians would excel, on account of their size, strength and remarkable performances credited to them in strength contests, but nevertheless, the best performance of the Patagonian was that of 30ft. 5in. This, for putting the 16-lb. shot, is such a ridiculously poor performance that it astonished all who witnessed it. It is 18ft. 2in. behind the American record, many feet behind the interscholastic record, and it is doubtful if there is a high school championship that is not won with a better performance. This was one of the disappointing features of the day's sport.

A glance at the other performances will prove interesting. The shot competition was won by an Americanized Indian, W. Dietz, who put it 33ft. 10 1-2in. The Japanese Ainus, a very small tribe—a gentlemanly tribe at that—performed very poorly, one of them putting the shot but 13ft. 7 1-2in. The best performance among the Pigmies was by Shambo, who put 17ft. 6in., the poorest performance being 11ft. 1 1-2in.

A comparison of these records and the other records in the Almanac will prove particularly interesting. Of course the argument may be made that these savages have not been taught the art of shot putting. Quite true, but one would think that the life these men have led should enable them to easily have put this shot many feet further. With the Pigmies, however, it is only fair to state that they entered into the spirit of this competition for fun, and only became interested in the pole climbing and their mud fight.

A PATAGONIAN THROWING THE JAVELIN.

The four hundred and forty yards run had four heats, the Americanized Indian, George Rye, making the fastest time—63s.—the slowest time being, 1m. 10 3-Ss., which was made by Gondola, from one of the African tribes.

In the running broad jump the different tribes sent forward their best men, the Americanized Indian, Mentz, of the Sioux tribe, clearing 17 feet. The jumping of the Pigmies, the Ainus, and some of the Indians was really ridiculous. Ray Ewry jumped further in the standing jump than any of them could go in a running broad jump. The broad jumping, like other sports the savages took part in, proves conclusively that the savage is not the natural athlete we have been led to believe.

When the competition in throwing the base ball was called, it was particularly noticeable that all the savages, as well as the Americanized Indians, were anxious to throw. There seemed to be a weird fascination about the ball that appealed to them. So less than two dozen took part in throwing the base ball. The first, second and third places were won by the Americanized Indians, the best throw of the savages being that of Coloho, the Patagonian, who threw 214 feet.

The savages did not take kindly at all to the 56-lb. weight. That is naturally a game for muscular athletes, but nevertheless it was thought advisable to obtain the records in a performance of this kind, to see how they compared with our own. Here is where the Patagonian was supposed to excel, because weight throwing is primarily a sport that large men excel at, particularly large, athletic, healthy men. Three Patagonians competed among themselves, but the best performance was 10ft. 6in. This is ludicrous when one considers Flanagan's great record, in fact, Flanagan in one throw sent the 56-lb. weight many feet further than the combined score of the three Patagonians. The best performance this day at this particular competition was by a young Sioux Indian named Mentz, who threw it 15ft. 11in., and the performances of the Ainus would compel many to believe that they had a great deal to accomplish in the way of developing their bodies. Three Ainus took part, one 28 years of age, one 38 and one 57. The young man threw it 7ft. 4in., the old man 5ft. and the man 38 years old threw it 3ft. 6in. It can probably be said, without fear of contradiction, that never before in the history of sport in the world were such poor performances recorded for weight throwing.

The second, and the final, day of the Anthropology sports showed the savage off somewhat better, because they were given a chance to show what they could accomplish in some of their own particular sports. The most marvelous performances at pole climbing ever witnessed in this country was given by an Igorotte, who climbed a pole about 50 feet in height in 20 2-5s.; the best American record for rope climbing being 15 4-5s. for 35 feet 8 inches, made by C. E. Raynor, South Bethlehem, Pa., in 1887. This performance showed conclusively the marvelous agility, strength of limb, and great endurance of this particular Igorotte, and it is doubtful if we have any trained athlete in America who could duplicate that performance with years of training. The nearest approach to this feat was that of an African who took 39 1-5 seconds to climb the pole. The times of all the savages in this particular event were praiseworthy and worthy of record.

Throwing the javelin was another disappointment. The javelin is 3 feet 6 inches in length, and is made of wood, except the head, which is spear-shaped and made of steel and measures 16 inches. The instrument is thrown with one hand only, from a seven-foot circle, at an object post of soft wood, one foot square, placed some distance from the circle and four feet above the ground.

The javelin, it will be seen, is thrown in the same style as the savages throw their spears, and it is to a certain extent an enlarged spear. At this particular sport it was hoped the savages would excel, but far from it; they did not, and in three attempts each, only three out of a couple dozen hit the post 23 feet away.

In the running high jump, the Americanized Indian again out-classed the savage, the savages showing in very poor form.

The archery contest was another disappointment. We have been led to believe that the Igorottes, the Africans, the Pigmies, the Cocopas, and the Ainus, who have been living for years with the bow and arrow, and with whom shooting with the arrow is an everyday occurrence, would exhibit the most marvelous target shooting that had ever been witnessed. The target, actually four feet by six, was placed forty-two yards away, and, astonishing to relate, only two of the entrants pierced the target, the others striking at the bottom of it. The winner turned up in a little Cocopa Indian boy named Shake, who pierced the target once. The other Indians, some of them old and gray-haired, found it impossible to hit it. The reason for this was explained perhaps to a certain extent by Dr. Simms, who claimed they did most of their shooting from horseback at moving objects. Be that as it may, the exhibition of archery shooting by the savage tribes was very disappointing, particularly to those, who, a few weeks later had the pleasure of seeing the American archers use their bows and arrows. The difference was just the same as in other sports.

The Patagonians, in the tug-of-war with the giants, showed remarkable ability. At bolo and perhaps at pulling, hauling and dragging, they must have developed muscles that are useful and strong, but the muscles for shot putting and throwing the weights had certainly been neglected.

In throwing the base ball for accuracy only two out of a couple of dozen were able to strike an ordinary telegraph pole at a distance of 25 feet, the best throw being by Chief Guechico, a Patagonian.

Many started in the one-mile run, and it was believed that the Kaf-firs and Indians would show great speed. This event, like all the other runs went to the Americanized Indians in the slow time of 5m. 38s.; Lehouw, a Kaffir, finished third in this race, showing fine form but no speed.

The Pigmies and the Cocopa Indians at the conclusion of the day's sport gave an exhibition of their shinny game, which required team work, and the uninteresting exhibition showed conclusively the lack of the necessary brain to make the team and its work a success, for they absolutely gave no assistance to each other, and so far as team work was concerned, it was a case of purely individual attempt on the part of the players. The same could be said of both games.

The Pigmies indulged in one of their favorite pastimes, a mud fight, two sides being selected, and it reminded one very much of a snowball fight of the average American boy. The exhibition was clever. They showed great dexterity in ducking, throwing and running, and they altogether redeemed themselves for their lack of interest in the other sports.

The records that follow should be kept and, no doubt, in years to come, there may perhaps be another meeting that the savages can take part in and better performances may be recorded.

Dr. McGee attributes this utter lack of athletic ability on the part of the savages to the fact that they have not been shown or educated. He thinks perhaps if they could have the use of a professional trainer for a short time that they would become as proficient as many Americans. The writer doubts it, as the exhibitions given on these particular days do not speak well for them. The whole meeting proves conclusively that the savage has been a very much overrated man from an athletic point of view.

It may be claimed that these particular days did not thoroughly establish the athletic ability of the savage tribes. It was a very hard meeting to handle and many of them did not perhaps know that they were expected to do their very best. The Pigmies from Africa were full of mischief. They took nothing whatever seriously, outside of their own shinny game and the tree climbing. For the other sports, they seemed to think that they were brought there to do certain things, and they did them, which may account for their poor performances. They tried to run, but did not persevere. The Ainus, a very small tribe from the north of Japan, were without doubt the most polite savages the writer has ever met, extremely so. They willingly, and with pleasant bows to the officials and everyone else, took part in every sport they were asked to, but it is doubtful if they extended themselves to any great effort. One of the Ainus was particularly interesting and decidedly anxious to jump, and he tried hard, but could not.

A PIGMY AFTER PUTTING THE SHOT.
Patagonian and Cocopa Indian seated in background.

In the one hundred yards run the savages proved, of course, that they knew nothing whatever about sprint racing. With eight or ten men on the mark it was a pretty hard thing to explain to them to run when the pistol was fired. In running their heats, when coming to the finish tape, instead of breasting it or running through, many would stop and others run under it.

In all these field sports, Mr. Martin Delaney, of the St. Louis University, gave them examples in advance, so that they knew what was expected of them. It may have been a mistake in not having another day, when perhaps, the different interpreters could have explained to the savages more about what was expected of them, but nevertheless the "Anthropology Days" were most successful and interesting, and ones that scientific men will refer to for many years to come. It taught a great lesson.

Lecturers and authors will in the future please omit all reference to the natural athletic ability of the savage, unless they can substantiate their alleged feats.

SUMMARY OF EVENTS, OLYMPIC GAMES OF 1904—Continued.

A GROUP OF CHICAGO A. A. SWIMMERS AT THE OLYMPIC CHAMPIONSHIPS, 1904

THE OLYMPIC GAMES OF 1908.FROM COMTE E. BRUNETTA d'USSEAUX, SECRETARY OF THE INTERNATIONAL OLYMPIC COMMITTEE.

James E. Sullivan, Esq.,

Chief of the Department of Physical Culture, Louisiana Purchase Exposition, St. Louis, Mo.

DEAR SIR:—I have just received the newspapers relating the success of the III Olympiad, the course of which I have followed with the greatest interest, though I was unfortunately unable to attend. I offer you my personal congratulations and I beg you to transmit them to the honorable members of the Committee, our colleagues.

I regretted very much not being able personally to invite you to the IV Olympiad, which will be held at Rome in 1908, from the month of February to the month of July (the Olympic week falling in the Easter holidays).

In accordance with the decision of the Congress, and in conjunction with our President, Baron Pierre deCoubertin, and with a committee of Roman gentlemen, I am at present occupied in working out the general scheme of the Olympiad and shall make it known to the Roman committee, which will be definitely formed in the month of November. Will you, if you please, in the final speech, officially, in my name, invite your honorable colleagues and the valiant American champions to the IV Olympiad? Rome, the capital of the ancient world, will be proud and flattered to receive the nation which is an example of the vigor and force of the New World.

I enclose you a little scheme of the arrangement "de maxima" of the Olympic festival of 1908, which, however, I communicate to you simply semi-officially.

I hope to have the pleasure of meeting you at the Congress, to be held next year at Brussels, and beg to remain, Yours very truly,

EUGEN BRUNETTA D'USSEAUX,

Secretary of the International Olympic Committee, and Italian Delegate

MEETING OF THE COMMITTEE OF INTERNATIONAL OLYMPIC GAMES, HELD AT LONDON, JUNE 20-26, 1904, AND PROGRAMME FOR OLYMPIC GAMES OF 1908.

Held at London, June 20-26, 1904, and Programme for Olympic Games of 1908.

The Committee of the International Olympic Games held a meeting at London on June 20, 1904 at the Mansion House, at 10:45. The Lord Mayor pronounced the opening speech, and welcomed in the name of the City of London the members of the Congress. Sir C. E.

Won by Zoltan deHolomay, of Buda-Pesth.

Howard Vincent, M.P., welcomed them in the name of His Majesty King Edward VII, who had expressed a desire to give his patronage to the Congress, and to receive the members at Windsor Castle.

There were present:

The President of the Committee of the International Olympian Games.

For England—Baron Pierre deCoubertin, Sir C. E. Howard Vincent, Lord Kinnaird, Earl of Darnley, Hon. Herbert Gladstone, Rev. deCourcy Laffan, Sir Lees Knowles, Sir W. H. Grenfell.

For France—Monsieur E. Caillot, Comte Bertier deSauvigny.

For Germany—Docteur W. Gebhardt, Comte deWartensleben.

For Italy—Comte E. Brunetta d'Usseaux.

For Sweden—Col. W. Balck, Count Clarence von Rosen.

For Holland—Baron F. deTuyl.

For Belgium—Comte H. deBaillet La Tour.

For Mexico—M. Miguel deBeistegui.

For Denmark—M. Nordenfeld.

The President, Baron deCoubertin, after having sent to His Majesty the King, the thanks and the respectful homage of the Committee (which the members heard standing), and to the Lord Mayor likewise declared the meeting open, and proceeded to read the letters of the absent members, Messrs. W. M. Sloane, Comte Alexis Mercati. Comte Majorada del Compo, who for various reasons were unable to attend, and from Messrs. Kemeny and Gergoud, at the moment, at St. Louis, taking part in the III Olympiad.

Then the President called upon Comte Brunetta d'Usseaux, in virtue of his office as Secretary of the Committee, to read the Agenda of the meeting.

1. Next Olympiad.

2. Organization of the International meeting relating to sports, in Belgium, 1905.

3. The necessity of a closer union between, the Committee and the Federations, and the sporting clubs of the different countries.

4. Communications of the members of the Committee.

The Comte d'Usseaux, representing Italy, began by presenting a formal demand that Rome might be chosen for the celebration of the IV Olympiad, a request strengthened by a letter from the Mayor of Rome to the President of the Olympian Committee, and also to the President of the Committee setting forth the preparatory work to be done during the winter.

In his turn, Doctor W. Gebhardt rose, in the name of Germany, to request that the choice of the town which should have the honor of being the scene of the IV Olympiad might fall on Berlin, and this demand was strengthened by a letter from a high personality, who wrote to Doctor Gebhardt, that, if Berlin should be chosen for the scene of the IV Olympiad the Committee might be sure that Germany would arrange the affair in a manner worthy of herself and of the Olympiad.

As no other member presented a petition, Rome and Berlin remained the only towns to be considered.

At this first meeting, it was decided to choose Brussels for the International Congress of Sports to be held next year, the date being fixed for the 10th to the 20th of May, 1905. The President informed the Committee that His Majesty the King of Belgium had accepted the Presidency of the Congress, in which he takes a great interest. At the following meetings the other subjects of the Agenda were discussed, and finally at the fourth meeting, Doctor Gebhaedt, for Germany, having withdrawn his request, and having assured his vote for the Italian capital, this city was chosen unanimously for the celebration of the IV Olympiad, which will be held in 1908.

Count Brunetta d'Usseaux then presented the proposed programme for the period, during which the various sports and Olympic games, approved, will be carried out, arranged thus:

1st Period. From the month of February to Easter (April 19) National and International Shooting Matches; Fencing; Horse Races and Horse Show; Polo; Tennis; Balloon; Longue Paume; Basket Ball; Foot Ball; Cricket, Rugby; Fireman's Competition.

2d Period. (Easter holidays) International Olympic Games Congress: Automobile Races; Aerostatic Competition Exhibition.

3d Period. (At Civitavecchia or Naples): Regattas for Rowing Boats (Royal Italian Rowing Club); Regattas for Sailing and Steam Boats (Royal Italian Yacht Club); Propellers; Life-saving Competition on Land and Sea, etc.

The cycle will be crowned by fêtes and by an Exhibition of Sports and Industries relating thereto, and by meetings. The Committee will also consider and arrange an Art Exhibition.

This arrangement being approved, the members representing Sweden, Norway, Holland and Denmark request that the Committee should be the arbiter of the Programme of the Olympiads, and of the arrangements pertaining thereto. Count Brunetta d'Usseaux, representing Italy, referred to the preceding Olympiads, during which the Committee had given the greatest liberty of action for the development of the Programme and asked that the same treatment might be accorded to Rome. On the other hand, Count Brunetta d'Usseaux undertakes from the present time to keep the strictest account of all the propositions, modifications, additions or changes in the Programme which the members of the Committee might desire to make opportunely.

Finally, the Committee has decided that at the City of Berlin, which had so generously renounced its candidature for the IV Olympiad, should be held the annual Congress of the International Olympic games in 1906. (The Congress of 1905 taking place at Brussels, on the occasion of the International Congress relating to Sports.)

The President, Baron deCoubertin, at the end of the meeting, communicated officially the deliberations of the Committee to His Majesty the King of England, His Majesty the King of Italy, and to Prince Colonna, Syndic of Rome, as well as to the Italian ambassador at London, Monsieur Pansa, who replied immediately that he had communicated them to the Italian Government.

(See at the end the telegram of His Majesty King of Italy.)

His Majesty the King, the Lord Mayor and the members of the English Committee overcame with kind attention the members of the Congress during their stay in London.

On the 20th a luncheon was given at the Mansion House by the Lord Mayor; in the evening a dinner by the Worshipful Company of Fishmongers.

On Tuesday, 21st, a cricket match at Lord's Cricket Ground; in the evening a dinner, given by Sir Howard Vincent, at the House of Commons.

Wednesday, 21st—A lecture by Colonel Balck at the Society of Arts, with a speech by the Lord Chief Justice; luncheon at the Sporting Club given by the President.

Thursday, 23d—Reception at Windsor upon the invitation of His Majesty the King; luncheon given by Lord Kinnaird.

Friday, 24th (Birthday of His Majesty)—Parade of the Horse Guards; Exhibition of Sports at the Crystal Palace; in the evening, a reception given by Rev. deCourcy Laffan.

Saturday, 25th—Luncheon and coach drive given by Lord Newlands, President of the Coaching Club, and a garden party at Osterley Park, the seat of the Count and Countess of Jersey.

Sunday, 26th—Luncheon at Taplow Court and a row on the Thames upon the invitation of Mr. W. H. Grenfell.

Monday, 27th—H. R. H. Prince of Wales, in the name of His Majesty, at Kiel, received the Committee of the International Olympic Games before their departure. E. BRUNETTA D'USSEAUX, Secretary of the International Olympic Committee.

Paris, Oct. 5, 1904.

A letter of Baron deCoubertin, of July 21, announces that Prince Colonna, Syndic of Rome, has accepted the Presidency of IV Olympiad.

His Majesty, the King of Italy has sent through his Chamberlain the following telegram:

"The King, my august sovereign, is deeply sensible, of the homage offered him by you and your colleagues, and thanks heartily the Committee, who, by choosing Rome for the scene of the IV Olympiad in 1908, have given to Italy such a lively testimony of cordial sympathy.

"PONZIO-VAGLIA, "Lord Chamberlain."

THE FINEST EQUIPPED GYMNASIUM IN THE WORLD

The progress made in the manufacture and the mechanical perfection of the various gymnastic appliances shown in the complete gymnasium installed by A. G. Spalding & Bros at the World's Fair, demonstrated that the firm is alive to the imperative need of the times. Physical training is being rapidly advanced and in the congested sections of the country it is a growing problem how to provide for the new conditions. This is particularly true in public school work and similar institutions. Real estate in large cities is extremely valuable, and as a consequence gymnasiums are often reduced in size and wholly inadequate to the growing needs. This means that the apparatus of the past of a fixed or cumbersome character must be superseded by appliances that may be rapidly and conveniently handled in a manner to accommodate the constantly increasing number of boys and girls needing systematic physical development.

A. G. Spalding & Bros, who outfitted the complete gymnasium at the World's Fair and received the Grand Prize and Gold Medal in competition for their exhibit are, to be congratulated on their enterprise.

The following pages are devoted to a few cuts of the gymnasium referred to and also a complete list of the apparatus installed.

2 No. 3 Medicine Balls.	1 Pair Shoulder Calipers.
	1 Spirometer-shelf.
	1 Dynamometer for Grip.

CUT NO. 1—The above is a combination piece of wall apparatus which may be used as a rowing weight, back and loin pulley, direct chest pulley with upright backboard, or intercostal overhead pulleys. Either set of handles is always ready for use, and requires no adjustment.

CUT NO. 2—A portable Indian club dumb bell rack, made of oak, mounted on rubber-tired wheels. The particular feature about it is the locking device, whereby an entire row of Indian clubs or dumb bells may be locked or unlocked with one throw of the lever, the object of the device being to place the control of the apparatus entirely in the hands of the instructor. The character of the hanger is decidedly unique and practical and is original with A. G. Spalding & Bros.

CUT NO. 3—A new style of jumping standard that was favorably commented on by all who saw it. It is elaborately made of polished brass tubing and brass fittings, having a heavy iron round base. The particular feature of its construction was the automatic pin arrangement which was permanently attached to the standard and was instantly adjusted, locking itself when released at the desired height.

CUT NO. 4—Shows a combined horizontal and vaulting bar of entirely new construction. The bars are suspended by overhead guys and this guys are tightened and the bar drawn into position at the floor by the use of one lever on each upright. The principle is radically new and is certainly most successfully applied. The bar requires only two floor plates and two points of attachment at the floor, eliminating the spread of guys, thereby saving floor space and greatly facilitating the handling of the apparatus in clearing the floor for other work.

CUT NO. 5—Illustrates a pair of parallel bars, the design of which was particularly commended by the entire body of Turn Verein representatives who used them in the Olympic gymnastic contests. A cut of the bars in use, showing the visiting German team performing a sextette hand stand is shown on the opposite page.

CUT NO. 6 A photograph from one end of the gymnasium showing considerable of the apparatus in place on the floor, The net in the centre of the room is for volley ball games. Owing to the character of the apparatus the floor may be quickly cleared for games of this character at short notice.

Spalding Patented Running and Jumping Shoes

(Patented December 2, 1902)

Their merits speak for themselves. The most successful runners and hurdlers use these shoes.

In these shoes the spikes cannot by any possibility come in contact with the foot. The rubber sole is an assistance, in that it is partly underneath the spike, and therefore acts in the nature of a cushion, and our patented principle enables us to place the spikes so that they will not come loose after being wet, as water has no effect on the rubber sole. We also claim that on account of the non-slippable purchase a runner obtains with this sole, he is able to make a quicker start than is possible with a shoe of ordinary construction.

Notes on the digitized version of the Report of the Games of the III Olympiad, St. Louis 1904

The digital version of the Report of the Games of the III Olympiad was created with the intention of producing the closest possible replica of the original printed pages. These technical notes are intended to describe the differences between the digital and printed documents and the technical details of the digital document.

The original document:

No Official Report was published by the organizing committee of the 1904 St. Louis Games. Over time two documents have come to be accepted as reports for those Games: Spalding's Official Athletic Almanac for 1905, compiled by James E. Sullivan, and The Olympic Games, 1904, by Charles Lucas. This volume is the Spalding Almanac. The Spalding Almanac of 1905 included 284 numbered pages plus additional pages showing photographs and advertisements. Pages 11 through 154 cover non-Olympic sports events. The non-Olympic pages are not included in this digital edition.

The original paper version of the 1904 Spalding document has dimensions of $5 \times 6\frac{3}{4}$ " (12.5×17 cm).

Special features of the digital version:

- The back cover and the binding are not included in the digital version.
- Blank pages at the front and back of the book are not represented in the digital version.
- Illustration or photos in landscape format were rotated from vertical to horizontal to make viewing easier.
- To aid navigation, bookmarks have been added to the PDF file. Additionally, the table of contents entries have been linked to the page where the entry occurs.
